The Princeton Women's Soccer Team Camp is designed to provide scholastic Varsity, Junior Varsity, and/or club team's the opportunity to train and play together under the direction of Head Coach Sean Driscoll, his staff, and current student-athletes. The camp curriculum is designed to provide each team the opportunity to receive the same type of training and instruction the Tiger's receive in pre-season and beyond. The goal of the camp is to help prepare you and your team for the upcoming season. In addition, you will have the opportunity to play against and work with other teams to create a unique and meaningful experience.

Each evening will start with a training session that will focus on a technical and/or tactical topic that is tailored to meet the team's needs. Each evening will conclude with a small sided or full sided game environment with instruction from a current NCAA college coach. Goalkeepers receive separate, specialized coaching as well as game analysis. High School and/or club coaches that attend with their team will be able to collaborate with our staff to focus on specific areas in the game to help your team gain an edge in the upcoming season.

Using our Spiideo, automated video sports capture technology, each team will be provided with at least 1 training video and 1 game video that you can use during your pre-season or next team session. Spiideo provides a full-field tactical view of the training or game powered by AI so that you can see every detail of the team as well as the individual in the same recording.

Team Camp Coaches Background Checks

For the safety of all campers and coaches attending the team camp, coaches participating in a team camp must submit and pass a background check prior to the team being able to register. Coaches that do not submit and pass a background check, will not be permitted to participate during any camp activities. NO EXCEPTIONS!
